Integration course German

The integration course consists of a language course (600 learning units) and an orientation course (100 learning units).

In the language course, using examples from the daily life and professional life, you will learn the German language and grammar. The orientation course provides information about German history, politics, culture and everyday life, but also about your rights and obligations in Germany. The integration course ends with the final test “German test for Immigrants” (the so-called Deutschttest für Zuwanderer – DTZ) and a test for the orientation course.

The course is open to both participants eligible to be granted by the Federal Ministry for Migration and Refugees, and private customers.
